Message:

I have nothing to add to my report and recommendations from the 2012 meeting (http://www.isslr.org/forums/topic.asp?TOPIC\_ID=258). Perhaps Peri could comment on her efforts at creating a Google Sites page. I can make minor modifications to the home page of our current site as appropriate to announcing the next conference and providing links, but my intent in recruiting Peri was to resign from the webmaster position.

I go to the Sharing and permissions page and it does not let me add anyone etc, so maybe Bob Jellison could add you? And anyone else on the committee who may like to see the progress so far and add their comments?

As far as I can ascertain, the Google Site is being managed by a Google App (saltlakes.org) and I do not have the necessary permissions to fully manage the site I have been building, or to make it publicly, or even more widely, visible. This is unlike some other Google Sites that I have made with other organisations. I am essentially working in a vacuum...

See below:

Data access by your administrator or service provider Your Google Apps account can access the majority of Google products using the email address assigned to you by your administrator or Internet service provider. It's important to note that your administrator or service provider has access to any data you store in this account, including your email. Please read the Google Apps Important Privacy Notice for more information.

Furthermore, your domain administrator or service provider can turn off particular services or restrict your ability to move data to or from the organizational account. For example, if your organization or service provider does not turn on Picasa Web Albums, you will not be able to store photos there with your @my-domain.com or your @service-provider-domain.com account.

If you access Google products with an email address assigned to you by an administrator or service provider, your agreement or legal relationship with that administrator or service provider might affect:

- Who owns the data or content that you submit or upload through your account.
- The conditions under which you may access your account or when your account may be disabled.
- Who may access or delete the data in your account.

You can also access Google products not included in Google Apps by creating a Google Account not managed through Google Apps.

Hi Peri,

I'm not sure how to give sharing privileges to the site you have. When I log onto saltlakes.org, I do not have any sites under my account. The site you were working on is under your account and only you can provide sharing privileges.

Just to be sure, I just assigned you superadmin privileges to the saltlakes.org. This is the highest level of privileges and allows you to do anything including deleting users and even the whole Google app.

Bob

Dear All,

I am doing my studies of salt lakes in Russia and in Kazakhstan.
I have a lot of info about salt lakes in both countries in my scientific and popular papers.

Please visit web page
